Speeding Car Kills Novatan On Bridge

A speed-up car, speeding at more than 70 miles an hour across the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday, struck and killed 28-year-old Arthur S. Olson of Novato, a bridge maintenance foreman for nearly 20 years.

The driver, Kenneth Mark New, 26, of Alameda, said he was trying to get a new speed record from Santa Rosa to San Francisco.

California Highway Patrol said he was doing approximately 70 miles an hour and was slowing when the car struck Olson from behind.

Speed limit on the bridge is 45 miles per hour.

Olson was supervising a crew cleaning out holes for rubber lane dividers when the skidding car hit him. Two crew members, Frank May, of 27 Piper Lane, Fairfax, and Andrew Shon, of 227 D Street, San Rafael, leaped from his path, but Olson moved too late.

Bridge authorities said the southbound center lane had been closed off with marker cones for hundreds of yards back to the flagmen had been posted in the lanes as well. The men were working about 500 feet north of the toll plaza.

The car skidded after it hit Olson and stopped sideways across the traffic lanes, near the toll plaza.

New said he was trying out his new car, which he had been "under" with.

New was to appear for arraignment on an automobile felony manslaughter charge in San Francisco Municipal Court today. He was booked and charged yesterday afternoon, about an hour after the 1:10 p.m. accident, then freed on $250 bail.

He gave his occupation as a guard for American Patrol Service of San Francisco.

Olson started working on the bridge in 1942 and was promoted to maintenance foreman a few years later.

He had lived in Novato for 12 years. He was born in San Francisco, Jan. 11, 1936.

Before his employment by the bridge district, he worked for

Valley's Seeking 'Segregation' Solution

Sausalito's School Problem Is Probed

By BRUCE COLEMAN

There is no easy solution to the "de facto segregation."

Mills Valley School District trustees were made well aware of this last night at their meeting to consider proposals to action taken could be summed up as Trustee M. James Norton's statement near the end of the three-hour meeting: "We have offered our best but it's not good."

Six hundred persons attended. Capt. Henry Pierson, acting as fire marshal, said there were 600 inside Old Mill School Auditorium, and, unfortunately, meeting a combination of Sausalito and Mills Valley districts, also requiring an election.

"Put your money where your mouth is. It is time to find out how," challenged Dr. William L. Clark, Mills Valley board president, after much discussion and after saying his wife prefers that their youngsters stay at Strawberry School but, if necessary, she will send the child to the Sausalito District.

Clark said Dr. and Mrs. Millie Garza also offered to send their youngsters to Sausalito.

There were no responses from the crowd.

However, earlier in the evening Ziegert and Mrs. Kathy Averil said they would be with School District to be annexed, such proposal calling for an election, and, unfortunately, meeting a combination of Sausalito and Mills Valley districts, also requiring an election.

STENGEL IS REHIRED AS MANAGER OF METS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Casey Stengel was required to manage the New York Mets for 1965 today and Bing Devine, formerly with the St. Louis Cardinals, was named assistant to club president George Weiss.

Eddie Stanky, another former member of the Cardinals, joined the Mets as a director of player development, and Johnny Murphy and Jim Thomson were elected vice-presidents by the club's board of directors.

Weiss announced that Stengel, 75-year-old former manager of the New York Yankees, had been given a "slight raise" over the $72,000 salary he has received for each of the last three seasons.

Supervisor Byron W. Leydencker said the figures represent a fundamental change in approach and a "substantially bedded-up program."

One of the items questioned was increasing the designer's job from four months to seven months, and increasing his salary from $2,000 to $3,000.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr declared this as "rather startling" since it represented an increase of more than 100 per cent in the salary.

Mrs. Marcelle McCoy, fair manager, said the designer would undertake a combination of duties aside from design, including ground superintendent and construction superintendent.

At present the Marin Art and Garden Fair has the smallest staff of any county fair in the state, she said.

There is an additional $15 in the budget for more security guards. County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said additional protection is needed because of the fair's location.

They may not want the Goldwater administration to learn next January what is in those files," Miller said in a statement issued here.

He said the State Department had "ordered its agents to do major cities through the United States to destroy the bulk of their records containing data on government security risks. Why have these files being destroyed?"

Miller said earlier that President Johnson and his running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, "seem to have a policy of aid and program for everyone — but they don't seem to really have a principle any where."

Goldwater said the real test of the system are President Johnson and Democrats who are to finance, not destroy, the files.

Before a crowd estimated by police at 3,000 to 4,000, Goldwater pined at Johnson in these terms:

"This is a peculiar campaign. I'm always used to occasionally having a chance to debate with my opponent, occasionally have

Fairfax Council Wants To Control Women's Building

They Have Little Success In Changing Lease On Property

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM

Facing a determined delegation from the Fairfax Women's Club on the club's home ground, the Fairfax City Council last night tried, with little success, to suggest rewriting the 20-year lease under which the club occupies its city-owned building.

Councilmen were most concerned about the fact that rather than the city, new owners would be leasing the building from the city, which would use the half from time to time.

But some 20 members of the club, including several of its founders and a few husbands, angrily declared that things had been going along well since the lease was signed in 1937, and should be left as they are.

Councilman George Page led off the discussion, and quickly learned what an exercise in futility the whole thing was.

He suggested that "possibly we are not getting the best deal out of it, and possibly we are not getting the best deal out of it."

After Page read the lease, which was signed in 1937, and should be left as they are.
