

2 School Districts Wary On Merger

While two San Rafael school districts moved along the road toward unification, two others in Marin County kept wary distances from each other at a meeting of the County Committee on School District Organization Thursday at the county offices in San Rafael.

Students being considered with the view of merging San Anselmo and Pacific School Districts are reported to be considered at a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the offices of the County Committee on School District Organization. In North Marin, meanwhile, trustees of the San Jose and the San Anselmo School Districts are reported to be considering a merger.

San Jose districts include Lynnwood, subdivision at the south end of Novato, Lincoln, Lynnwood and the Hamilton Air Force Base area. According to the school district school districts must be organized within a particular area.

Two Novato boys, 14 and 15, were being held on charges of theft, the sheriff's office reported. They went to the Forest Park subdivision about 9 p.m. where they found a pickup truck with the keys in the ignition, districts reported. They drove the vehicle to Sonoma, but were caught by police there when the truck, according to a parked car at about 11:30 p.m.

Sonoma police returned the pair to Marin, where deputies charged them. Two Santa Rosa boys of the same age got into the same kind of trouble when they went to the Marin County show in San Francisco.

The 15-year-old told the California Highway Patrol that the auto show in mid-afternoon and valued around $100,000 when they saw a parked car with the keys in the ignition.

He said they decided to take the car and drive home instead of being home on the bus. They got as far as Redwood road and the south side of Novato where the car belonged to another auto. He said they decided to take the car and drive home instead of being home on the bus.

The boy said he and his younger companion ran away from the scene and became apprehensive, and that after a while he called his mother. She called the police and the other boy was found. Meanwhile, the 15-year-old was released in juvenile hall, and sent for his car.

The car lot boys took to San Francisco is owned by Rev. Joseph A. Moss of San Francisco according to the patrol report.

difficult for a new man on the job. He does not oppose an administrator. Paulman insisted, only the way the ordinance was passed and the fact that the people didn't vote.

But Paulman made it clear to the applicants that he intends to go ahead with an initiative program which he hopes would replace the administrator ordinance. He warned them that he already has notified the board of the intention and that a measure "could be on the June ballot or the November ballot" to eliminate the position.

At the same time, Paulman pointed out that three of the board members are up for re-election and that there "may be a different complexion" on the board after the election. "If I were a candidate for this job, I'd want to be on the June ballot," he said.

Paulman also pointed out that the board had approved the ordinance in 1941, and during each year since then 4,000 adults in Marin have claimed the adult classes at the college.

Regulation can be accomplished at the first meeting of any class. After the first week, any class can be dropped or added. "We will be charged to the office of the college," he said.

These regulations are citizenship training and English for the foreign-born, as well as tuition fees, which will be charged to the students. The additional fees to be charged are: 40 cents for the first class, 30 cents for the second, 20 cents for the third, 10 cents for the fourth, 5 cents for the fifth, and 5 cents for the sixth.

Chosen listed in the advertisement were interviewed separately in San Francisco and days and hours of meetings will be charged. The following classes will be charged: 40 cents for the first class, 30 cents for the second, 20 cents for the third, 10 cents for the fourth, 5 cents for the fifth, and 5 cents for the sixth.

Thief May Have Key To Building
Someone entered the Marin County Jail last night and took a key to the building, police reported yesterday. John Y. Martin, 30, of San Rafael, was in custody on charges of theft.

Police and state law require the offering of "recent, safe and sanitary" dwellings to displaced persons.

Herman used the appointment of a citizens' committee to aid in the redevelopment, composed of 10 or 12 members who are interested in their respective fields. Purpose of the committee would be to furnish information on the needs of the community and aid in the redevelopment.

College Lists Adult Classes

Spring quarter adult education classes will open at the College of Marin next week starting Monday evening, according to a schedule being mailed this week to the office of Dr. Robert N. LeConte, director of adult education at the college.

This year, the schedule lists the adult classes in the state to 1956. The San Francisco Board of Education reported that more than one million adults were enrolled in adult and college classes in 1955, and last year more than one million adults were enrolled in adult and college classes in 1955.

Registration can be accomplished at the first meeting of any class. After the first week, any class can be dropped or added. "We will be charged to the office of the college," he said.
